Hi Melinda,

Thank you for the call last Thursday to clarify the issues below. I would like to make sure that I understood you correctly on the phone:

1. Can a city still use the 2000 Census data or must the city use the 2010 Census data for all estimates?
   Your answer: We should be using the 2000 Census data supplemented with the most recent more specific data available (i.e. from DOF or information from a recent American Community Survey). We should use 2000 Census data for sections related to overpayment, overcrowding, etc.

2. Will a city be restricted on taking credit for units constructed prior to the 2010 Census?
   Your answer: For the 1999-2006 RHNA we can take credit for units constructed during the 1999-2006 planning period. For the 2007-2014 RHNA we can take credit for units constructed from 2007-present.

Thank you for confirmation or corrections in advance,

Subject: some questions

Hi Melinda,

I hope this note finds you well. We have the following questions which are applicable if delivery of a draft housing element to HCD for the initial 60-day review occurs after the preliminary results of the 2010 Census are available (for example, February 2011):

3. Can a city still use the 2000 Census data or must the city use the 2010 Census data for all estimates?
4. Will a city be restricted on taking credit for units constructed prior to the 2010 Census?

Thank you for your assistance,
